

Our Vision

A California free from domestic violence.

Our Mission

The California Partnership to End Domestic Violence promotes the collective voice of a diverse coalition of organizations and individuals, working to eliminate all forms of domestic violence.

About Us

The California Partnership to End Domestic Violence (the Partnership) is California's recognized domestic violence coalition, representing over 1,000 advocates, organizations and allied individuals across the state. Together we inspire, inform and connect all of those concerned with the critical problem of domestic violence—because together we're stronger.

Spanning nearly 40 years, the Partnership has a long track record of successfully passing more than 200 pieces of legislation on behalf of survivors and their families. We have also supported countless professionals with customized tools to serve their communities.

We believe that in order to end domestic violence, we must eliminate all forms of oppression and stand together in solidarity for broad social change. This can only be achieved by working together with advocates, legislators and allies from all areas of social justice. For more information, visit www.cpedv.org.

Our Strategies

Passing strong, comprehensive legislation and promoting policies that address the range of issues impacting survivors and their families

Making the most of opportunities in social and traditional media and engaging a variety of messengers to promote solutions to critical issues in our movement

Allowing every person working toward a violence-free California to become much more effective and efficient in addressing all facets of domestic violence
